Meet Samantha She/Her

Team Leader Systems and Innovation

If you have ever borrowed from the library kiosks, learned something new in a digital session or enjoyed smooth sailing with our tech, you have probably benefited from Sam's work. She is our Systems and Innovation Team Leader, and while her title sounds very official, Sam is one of those people with a true can-do attitude who makes even tough tech moments feel manageable.

Sam first came to library work because she wanted "a job that was focused on community service, something meaningful."

She found exactly that in helping people build confidence with technology. One of her favourite parts of the job is supporting community members as they explore the digital world. As she puts it, "Helping our community grow digital confidence, whether it's learning to use smartphones, staying safe online, or discovering new ways technology can enrich our lives" is what brings her joy in her role.

Around the library, Sam is known for her warm smile and calm attitude. She is the kind of person who can explain a tricky tech issue in a way that makes everything suddenly click.

"I love seeing the moment when someone realises they can do more than they thought."

Of course, there is plenty more to Sam than systems and screens. When she is not at the library, you might find her exploring interesting and adventurous walking spots both locally and further afield. She also has a surprising love for all things spooky. "When it comes to books and movies, scary is definitely my favourite genre," she says. Her top pick is Stephen King's It, which she proudly calls her "favourite book of all time."

Whether you meet her during a workshop or spot her around the library with a stack of tech devices and a Stephen King novel, Sam is always ready to help, chat and share her enthusiasm for learning.

BASIC TECH HELP

Frankston City Libraries provides 30 minute, one-on-one sessions, designed to help you with the tech basics – whether it's downloading an eBook, settings on a device, understanding apps, organising files, using email, or getting comfortable with everyday digital tasks.
